

Liberature. A Book-bound Genre discusses the concept, proposed by the Polish poet Zenon Fajfer in 1999 which refers to the kind of writing fusing text with its material form into a conceptual whole in the space of the book. In her monograph, described by the author as “the fruit of miscegenation between a scholar and a creative writer,...