
Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	9
Introduction	11
CHAPTER 1
Counsellogy	23
1.1. Counsellogy as a Network of Institutions and Academic Literature	23
1.2. Counsellogical Knowledge	25
1.2.1. Sources of Counsellogical Knowledge	27
1.2.2. Structuring and Application of Positivist Counsellogical Knowledge	34
1.2.3. Structuring and Application of Heuristic Counsellogical Knowledge	40
1.3. Preservation and Distribution of Counsellogical Knowledge	43
CHAPTER 2
Counselling	47
2.1. Counselling as a Social Action	47
2.1.1. The Subject of Counselling Action	48
2.1.2. The Object of Counselling Action	52
2.1.3. Measures and Tools in Counselling	54
2.1.4. Counselling Methods	55
2.2. Counselling as an Interpersonal Interaction	57
2.3. Counselling as an Organised and Institutional Activity	60
2.4. Counselling as a Form of Social Assistance	63
2.5. The Identity of Counselling – Summary	66

CHAPTER 3

Autonomy(?) of Counsellory and Counselling _____ 69

- 3.1. Revisiting Counsellory 69
- 3.2. Naturalistic Approach to Counselling Practice 70
- 3.3. Enlightenment Approach in Counsellory 72
- 3.4. Understanding and Interpretation of Counselling Reality 76

CHAPTER 4

Trends in Counselling Research _____ 81

- 4.1. Early Research 81
- 4.2. The Positivist Trend: Rationality and Instrumentality 82
- 4.3. The Interpretative Trend: Understanding and Adaptation 85
- 4.4. The Emancipatory-Critical Trend 88
- 4.5. The Postmodern Trend 91

CHAPTER 5

Neo-positivist Discourse:
Optimising Young People’s Vocational Start _____ 95

- 5.1. Vocational Starts, Vocational Guidance: Definitional Problems 96
- 5.2. Psychosocial Regulators of the Educational Start Quality 98
- 5.3. Typology of Young Adults Starting Their Careers 102
- 5.4. Using Guidance: Research Organisation and Procedure 106
- 5.5. School and Family Determinants of the Research Subjects’ Vocational Starts . . 109
 - 5.5.1. School Determinants of the Vocational Start 109
 - 5.5.2. Family Determinants of the Vocational Start 111
- 5.6. The Counselling Centre’s Work on Vocational Start Optimisation 114
- 5.7. Implementation of Guidance by Various Young Adult Groups 116
- 5.8. Guidance Efficacy in the Light of Longitudinal Research 119
- 5.9. Research Summary 125

CHAPTER 6

Humanistic Paradigm Discourses _____ 131

- 6.1. The Limitations of Counselling for Parents:
 - Reflections on The Killer at Thurston High 132
 - 6.1.1. The Object of Interpretation 132
 - 6.1.2. Counselling Participants 133
 - 6.1.3. The Film Protagonists’ Counsellors 137
 - 6.1.4. Methods of Counselling and Advisory Assistance 140
- 6.2. The Triple Breakdown in Everyday Reality
 - on Seeking Institutional Counselling 146
 - 6.2.1. The Rise of Scholarly Interest in Everyday Life Problems 146

6.2.2. Acknowledging a Problem: The First Breakdown in Everyday Reality	149
6.2.3. Turning to a Counselling Service: The Second Breakdown in Everyday Reality	152
6.2.4. Receiving Guidance: The Third Breakdown in Everyday Reality	155

CHAPTER 7

(Not So) Critical Discourse:

Adult Counselling – Generation Gap Perspective _____	159
---	-----

7.1. The Postfigurative Character of Adult Counselling.	159
7.2. Configuration in Adult Counselling	161
7.3. Adult Counselling in Prefigurative Culture	165
7.4. Contemporary Adult Counselling and Its Distortions	167

CHAPTER 8

Postmodernist Discourse:

Cultural Action Scripts for Contemporary Counsellors _____	173
---	-----

8.1. A Monolithic Action Script for the Modernist Counsellor	173
8.2. Postmodernist Society as a New Context for the Counsellor’s Actions	178
8.3. Change in the Counsellor’s Social Positioning	183
8.4. Action Scripts for Contemporary Counsellors	188

Conclusion _____	203
------------------	-----

Glossary _____	211
----------------	-----

Bibliography _____	233
--------------------	-----

Index of Names _____	249
----------------------	-----